Voix active et voix passive

The future simple tense can be used in both the active and passive voice.

- Voix active: The subject of the sentence performs the action.
- Voix passive: The subject of the sentence is the recipient of the action.

Active Voice Structure:

Subject + will + verb(inf) + object

Passive Voice Structure:

Object + will be + (verb) past participle + by + Subject (optional)

Examples (Active) | Examples (Passive)

- The teacher will teach a new lesson tomorrow.
| A new lesson will be taught by the teacher tomorrow.
- We will build a treehouse in the summer.
| A treehouse will be built in the summer (by us) “we”.

Note: The passive voice is not as common in the future simple tense as the active voice. It is often used to emphasize the object of the sentence or when the person performing the action is unknown.

Nadia: Hey Liam, what are you up to this weekend?

Liam: Hi Nadia! Actually, I won't be free this weekend. I will be volunteering at the animal shelter all Saturday.

Nadia: Oh, that's great! They must really appreciate your help. What will you be doing there?

Liam: I will be walking the dogs and playing with the cats. It's a lot of fun, and it helps the animals get some exercise.

Nadia: Sounds like a good cause. Maybe I could come and help out next time!

Liam: That would be awesome! They're always looking for extra volunteers. In fact, they will be having a fundraising event next month. Are you interested in coming?

Nadia: A fundraising event, huh? What will they be doing there?

Liam: There will be a bake sale, a raffle, and maybe even some pet adoptions! It'll be a fun way to support the shelter.

Nadia: That sounds interesting! I think I can make it. Will you let me know the details?

Liam: Sure, no problem. I'll text you the information later.

Nadia: Perfect! Well, I better get going. See you next week!

Liam: See you then!
